

Abstract of the Disclosure

The invention is directed to a fuel cell wherein the short-term reduction of the fuel cell power during increased power requirements on the system is reduced or entirely prevented as may be possible. For this purpose, an internal fuel store is provided within the cell housing.

5

100564 12304